

Genealogy Basic: How to find Vitals for Cape Breton Ancestors

By Joe Petrie

Background:

This document identifies sources I use for gathering vital information. At first it was oral information from family and friends. Later I used social genealogy sites like Genealogy Forum and Rootsweb. As genealogy information on the internet blossomed, I branched out to Census records on the internet. Through my mentor, Charles Buchanan and his friend, John Howie, I started reading from genealogy sites like the Lunenburg County GenWeb. Now most of my research is on the Internet.

My parents were born in Cape Breton. Mom was born in Glace Bay in 1904. She visited Boston often. In the summer of 1926, she worked in Boston. She intended to return to her teaching position at St Anne's in Glace Bay in September. She returned to Glace Bay in late September for a short period of time to dispose of her possessions. She intended to return to Boston as a student. She planned to finish college and teach in Massachusetts. On October 2, 1926 she was pre-examined in Halifax for her return by ship to Boston. She was listed as an Alien student. Her pre-examination record was filed in the US Records Office under the name of Elizabeth Loretta Tobin.

Dad was born in Bridgeport in 1906 – nearly 90 days before Dominion was officially established. Dad was a frequent visitor to Boston. He worked and went to school in Boston to become an Electrician. In 1925, nearly all members of his family migrated to Boston in 3 waves: (1) his older sister Hazel to work in Cohasset (2) my Dad and his father came later to live in Brookline and (3) the rest of the family except his oldest brother came to live in Brookline. The Border Crossings were recorded in Vanceboro, Maine.

Mom and Dad met at a skating party at the Boston Arena (now a part of Northeastern University). They married in Boston in 1931. They rented in various localities that were handy to public transportation for Mom to work; she never drove. Their children (all sons) were born in Boston. After my oldest brother was born, they rented close to where Dad worked. They rented and bought their only house in Dedham. Until my wife and I and our two sons moved to Norwood, I always lived in Dedham.

We children were raised like we were living in Cape Breton. Our visitors were all family or friends from Cape Breton. Most had migrated to Massachusetts. Beginning in 1946, every 3 years we vacationed in Cape Breton. I stopped in 1952. In the late 1970s, Starting in the 1980s, I went to Cape Breton every three years to visit Dad's sister (Dorothy Donovan) in Dominion and Mom's sister (May Tobin) in Halifax.

For over 30 years, I have been a genealogy gatherer. After retiring from my US government career and while teaching as an Adjunct Professor of Computer Science, I finally started publishing my genealogy focusing first on my Newfoundland roots. Later, I started publishing on the Cape Breton Genealogy and Historical Association web site. The Genealogy Basics Series that I started a few years ago was inspired by Norm MacDonald.

Nearly five years ago, after I retired from teaching, I volunteered to help people with their genealogy. First, it was at my local library. Later, a son volunteered me to help at the Library of the Irish Cultural Centre of New England (ICCNE) in Canton MA. Two learning experiences at ICCNE Library are worth noting: David Barrett the former Director of the library gave me a document on Irish Links. My Links documents are the result. The other volunteers especially David's sister Judy Barrett and Bernie Couming taught me most of what I currently know about researching Irish genealogy. The volunteers founded the Friends of Irish Research in Brockton.

Introduction:

For all my ancestors (and their descendants), I usually start with Census records. I collect information as much information as possible for as many censuses as possible. I try to collect at least: Surname, Given Name, Location, and Age. Next, I try to collect data from official records: Birth, Marriage, Death and Wills. Then I try to collect Church records, Obituaries, Cemetery and gravestone information. Finally, I try to collect information from published genealogies, Ancestry's Public Trees, FamilySearch Trees, directories and "oral" histories.

Cape Breton genealogy is like all localities in Canada. It is easiest for people who stayed. The difficulty is for people who moved on.

The following links may help.

Free Web Sites that include records for the 4 Cape Breton Counties

FamilySearch <http://Familysearch.org/Search/Collection/Lists> - In the Collections Name, enter Canada. Exclude the 1861, 1871, 1881, 1891, 1901 and 1911 Census Files because other web sites are better. (I prefer the friendlier Automated Censuses of Canada for 1851, 1901, and 1911. I also prefer Ancestry Library Censuses for 1861, 1871, 1881, 1891, and 1921.) I use the following Historical Canadian Collections that contain Cape Breton records. Some collections were updated this year:

Ancestry Library - There is no hyperlink because I use my local library to access the database. My library is one of over 40 libraries in Eastern Massachusetts that access Ancestry Library through the Minuteman Network. In addition, I have counted over 40 other Massachusetts communities' libraries which offer Ancestry Library. Ancestry Library is free to all library users. It is not available 24/7. It is available on-site at the library during normal working hours. Join any Massachusetts library with Ancestry Library for researching its collections for $1.

Automated Census of Canada <http://automatedgenealogy.com/> - The Automated Genealogy site hosts several projects to index Canadian censuses. Over the last several years Library and Archives Canada has digitized their microfilms of the original census forms for several of the Canadian censuses. The Automated Genealogy project group has organized volunteers to produce indices to the people enumerated in these censuses. Each project uses simple web forms to allow volunteers to transcribe census data from the images into a database, with the entered data being immediately available on the site. Following transcription, volunteers proofread and make corrections. Anyone with an internet connection can participate as a transcriber, proofreader, or just by submitting corrections as they use the site. The status of each census project varies depending on how long it has been active. There is a link to the LAC image of the original census page at the top of each transcribed census page.

1901 Census

The 1901 Census was the first census that LAC released images for and the first one we indexed. Transcription has been completed and we are almost 70% through proofreading.

1911 Census

Transcription is now complete, proofreading is in progress.

1851 Census

Censuses were planned for 1851 for the then separate colonies of Canada (current day Ontario and Quebec), New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia. The census of Canada was delayed until early 1852 so it is variously referred to as the 1851 or 1852 Census. Indexing of the 1852 census was started in August 2007. Indexing of the 1851 Census of New Brunswick was started in June 2007 and has been completed. Indexing of the 1851 Census of Nova Scotia, which is a head-of-household-only census, has not yet begun.

Nova Scotia Historical Vital Statistics <https://www.novascotiagenealogy.com/> - These records include registered births from 1864-1877 with some birth entries as early as 1810, delayed births 1836-1907, marriages 1763-1932, and deaths 1864-1877, 1908-1957. In 1864, an attempt was made to register vital statistics in Nova Scotia. These records are fairly complete from 1867 to 1874. In 1877, birth and death registration was discontinued, but it began again in 1908.

Images for the following records can be viewed at www.novascotiagenealogy.com.

List of Subscription Cape Breton Genealogy Web Sites

Cape Breton Genealogy and Historical Association http://www.cbgen.org/ - The CBGHA Home Page indicates that: “Our member's web site that started in 2003 consists of over 600,000 pages of material transcribed from original documents and other types of material useful to researchers; over 25 GB of information related to Cape Breton. This site has the largest collection of Cape Breton genealogy information available anywhere. Our collection is large and varied.

“Our records include an ever increasing collection of Cape Breton related material. No site can have every record for an area, however, our records are vast and increase each month. We have the following types of records - books, cemetery records, census records, monthly magazine the Ezine, family trees, historical records, land grants, maps, helpful links to other sites, military records, newspaper items, obits, parish records, school records and more.

“We think of our website as a digital Cape Breton genealogy research library. We assemble Cape Breton genealogy research material, from many sources, in one easy to access site so our members can do their research from the comfort of their homes.”

Please note that I am a Research Correspondent for CBGHA. I write research articles and especially the Genealogy Basics series. Also, cbgen.org has my family trees and my Register Reports for my Cape Breton Ancestors. In addition, I gather information for my Cape Breton Ancestors from the cemetery records, family register reports, family trees, historical records, land grants, military records, newspaper items, obituaries, parish records, and school records.

Annual membership fee: $25.

Ancestry.com http://www.Ancestry.com/ – Wiki describes Ancestry as the largest online subscription-based genealogy database service. Two of the databases that are interesting to Newfoundland and Labrador researchers are: Newfoundland & Labrador, Canada, Crew Lists, 1864-1942 with over 41000 records and Newfoundland, Canada, Index of Birth, Marriage & Death Notices from Newspapers, 1810–1890 with 42,000 records. The latter Index of Birth, Marriage and Death Notices appears to be a subset of the Maritime Archive History collection compiled by Gertrude Crosbie that is available from Memorial University Library's Maritime Archive for about $50.

The following are the approximate cost per annum for the US, International and World: $120, $300, and $480.

Most of the genealogy volunteers at the Friends of Irish Research have subscriptions and use the software when they consult with clients at our Friday evening meetings. All of the consultations are free. Free consultations can be arranged at the following web site: <http://www.friendsofirishresearch.org/>

Ancestry.ca http://home.Ancestry.ca/ – LivingSocial describes Ancestry.ca as the leading family history website available in Canada. Partnered with Ancestry's global network of family history services, with countries like Australia, Germany, Sweden, France, and the United Kingdom, Ancestry.ca offers users unprecedented access to multicultural heritage documents. Ranging from censuses (including English, Scottish, and Welsh data) and passenger lists, to death and marriage records, Ancestry.ca has it all. Ancestry.ca helps customers find their own discoveries and family trees by providing these high-quality services at reasonable prices. The per annum cost is approximately $120 for Canada and $300 for the World.
