Censuses

- ▶ The 1851 Census for Nova Scotia was taken in 1851. Only the head-of-household was recorded by name; all others in the household were enumerated in age categories. This census was eight pages long and includes information about buildings, and agriculture.
 - ▶ The 1861 censuses were taken for Canada East and West, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. NS and PEI only recorded the names of the heads of household.

Varied Details

- ▶ 1851 Nova Scotia recorded the number of births in each family in the preceding year.
 - ▶ 1861 Nova Scotia recorded births in the previous year since 30th March 1860.
 - ▶ The 1911 and 1901 census recorded information about the dates of birth for each individual. The 1911 census recorded month and year; the 1901 recorded day, month and year.

Different Questions

- ▶ 1851 Nova Scotia provided information about inhabited buildings, schools, churches and factories.
 - ▶ 1851 Nova Scotia provided information about agricultural, fishing, and manufactured products.
 - ▶ 1861 Nova Scotia recorded deaths by age columns in each family since March 30, 1860.
 - ▶ 1911 Canada census recorded information about the address or the location of each family.

Place of Origin

- ▶ Generally, ethnicity was traced through the father, except for Native peoples who traced ethnicity through their mothers.
 - ▶ The terms used to record ethnicity in the census records were current at that time.
 - ▶ If the place of birth was a Canadian province it was abbreviated. If the place of birth was in the British Isles, the name of the region was recorded. If the place of birth was foreign, only the name of the country was to be recorded.
 - ▶ The 1891 Canada Census asked each individual in the household the birthplace of the father, and the birthplace of the mother, thus providing clues to the country of origin.
